

Parents' sacrifices to fund children's education

The Value of Education Foundations for the future

Responses from a global survey of 6,241 parents in 15 countries and territories

84%

of parents are paying towards their child's university education

Only

13%

of university students contribute towards the costs

The average amount parents spend each year on their child's university education is

USD7,631

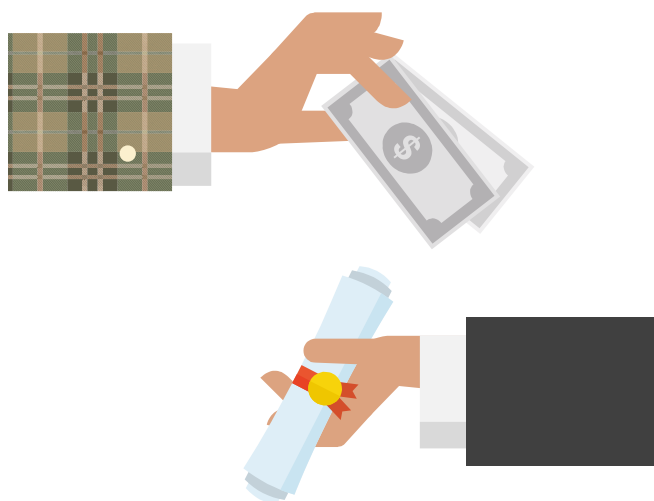

60%

of parents are willing to go into debt to fund their child's university education

49%

of parents rate paying for their child's education as more important than contributing to their own retirement savings of parents say they would be least likely to sacrifice paying for their child's education, if they had to cut back on their financial outgoings

32%

